Seen, Heard and Done Among Those Who Go, Come and Tarry—Women and Society, Here and Elsewhere.

BY MISS E. NELLIE BECK.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

A pleasant surprise party was given Mr. Frank B. Lee at his residence, corner of Wright and G streets Monday night, January 9, by his wife, Mrs. F. B. Lee, and daughters, Misses Edna and Lillie in honor of his fiftieth anniversary.

Mr. Lee is night watchman at the Brent Lumber Co. mill and went to work as usual little dreaming of the pleasant surprise that had been so tastefully prepared for him.

At seven o'clock Mr. Lee received a message to come home at once, and imagine his surprise on returning home to find his house lighted and filled with guests, all wishing him many more happy birthdays.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. L. Suarez, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Suarez and two children, Mrs. F. B. Lee, Mrs. Morton and daughter, Mrs. Bobe and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. P. Peak, Misses Clara Ketchum, Valery Flowers, Lella and Reba Butler, Maud Armstrong, Josie Edwards, Jessie Tracy, Edna, Lillie, Jessie, Frances and Susie Lee, Messrs. John, Lonnie and Mac Flowers, Jim and Wiley Edwards, Fred Tiedman, Capt. McSwain, Dorcy Thompson, Charlie Armstrong, Robert Sweeney, Milton Cravy, George House, Mike Burns, Mr. Williams, Mr. Filligan, and Master R. E. Lee, last and least Master Lester Suarez, the only grandson of Mr. Lee.

Mr. Lee received many beautiful presents.

The house was decorated with holly, ferns and palms, and after a series of enjoyable games, from a beautifully appointed dining table delightful refreshments were served.

VICTIM OF ALL WORK.

Pensacola friends of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Harlee were pained to learn of Mr. Harlee's death Friday morning, January 6, at 3:30 o'clock, though the news was not unexpected. Said a friend: "Jack Harlee has gone, a victim of overwork, of too close application to business in Tampa. Gone in his young manhood when he ought to be in his prime. He tried Cuba and the southwest, but it was too late. He passed away in the old home in Dillon, S. C., after years and months of such suffering as made death a sweet relief."

A GOOD PHYSICIAN GONE.

At the hour of the funeral service for the late Dr. Brosnahan, his old friends and neighbors paid many beautiful tributes to his memory as one of the old school type of physician, who practiced his profession rather for the uplifting of humanity than for the more sordid returns. Said one who knew him well:

"The sad death of Dr. John Brosnahan brought to an end a life of service to humanity worthy of both honor and emulation. In the medical profession he not only upheld a high standard of excellence in preparation for a work so delicate and responsible, but exalted as well the position as one in which much good can be accomplished in service to the suffering poor."

"After retiring from active work, though he would receive no compensation, he never refused his friends and neighbors in emergencies or when they especially desired his advice, and hundreds of people around his old home at Gulf Point will recall many instances in which he 'Went about doing good,' or received and ministered to those who came to him.

"Upon one occasion he spent several days and nights in the home of special friends seeking to alleviate the pain of one of its members, and only when death had claimed its victim, did he cease his vigilance and return to his home. But, when spoken to concerning his faithfulness, he objected to any words of praise, saying it was his opportunity of doing good. Surely, he remembered the injunction of Paul, 'Neglect not the gift that is in thee.'"

"A good man is gone. A noble life-work is ended. Many rise up and call him blessed, because of his love for humanity and his faithfulness in meeting the opportunities which came to him of doing others good."

"It is said that Dr. Brosnahan's was a beautiful life of service to the world, regardless of compensation. That he was never known to refuse his services or professional advice, a record that is best appreciated by physicians who do not hesitate to refuse the call of poverty especially in bad weather or on disagreeable nights or when it interferes with their own social pleasure or physical comfort."

OLD SOLDIERS GRATEFUL.

Mrs. A. E. McDavid, Pensacola, member of the state committee on the Soldiers Home in Jacksonville, is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. Cook, of Jacksonville, chairman of the committee, thanking Mrs. McDavid and all who assisted her in making up the Christmas box sent to the Home through her efforts.

One other chapter—the Palatka Daughters—also sent a nice box which, with the one sent from Pensacola, Mrs. Cook says: "Enabled us to give each inmate of the Home a package containing socks, handkerchiefs, tobacco, pipe and other small articles," for which the Old Soldiers wished her to express their appreciation. They were as pleased as boys over being remembered.

In the box that Mrs. McDavid sent there were four quilts, one made by the ladies of Pensacola Chapter, and three sent by the generous mistress of a household on North Baylen street. There were also other articles including a money order for $5, plum pudding and other fancy groceries.

These liberal contributions served to let the brave boys of the '60s know that, in all the hurry and bustle of a twentieth century Christmas they are still remembered by their more fortunate comrades and the younger generations.

Martha Reid Chapter of Jacksonville always furnishes the Home with a good dinner on Christmas and on Thanksgiving, and this Christmas the dinner was especially grateful to the veterans whose ranks are thinning all too fast.

RECEPTION AT HOLLYWOOD.

Cards are out from Col. and Mrs. T. V. Kessler to a reception at "Hollywood," their home on the Bayshore, Thursday evening, January 19, from 6 to 11 o'clock.

As the occasion is the fortieth anniversary of their marriage, only married people are invited, though a number of society girls will assist the daughters of the house in entertaining the guests.

Every arrangement will be made for the convenience of guests from the city and along the Bayshore, and the reception promises to be one of the most delightful functions of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Bernard, of Pensacola, Fla., are in the city and are at the Battle House—Mobile Item.

Florida Confederate Veterans will be interested to learn that Capt. T. W. Givens of Tampa, after an unbroken record of seventeen years as a maker of abstracts, has withdrawn from the Tampa Abstract Company.

Mr. T. O. Jennings returned last night from Tallahassee.

Miss Cecile Byrdall, of Oklahoma, is expected to-day to spend a few days with friends on North Hill on her way to the East Coast for the season.

Mrs. A. E. McDavid is removing this week from her residence 310 West Gregory to her pretty cottage, 17 East Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Oliver and family who have been located for the past two years at Live Oak, Fla., have returned to Pensacola and now reside at 304 North Spring street.

Mrs. David Edreht and little boy, "J. Montrose," leave this morning for a visit of several weeks in Tallahassee, Marianna and Jacksonville, accompanying Mr. Edreht on a business trip.

Mr. B. F. Barnhill, of Kynesville, Fla., spent Monday and Tuesday in Pensacola.

Mrs. Adolphe Cohen leaves to-day for Mobile where she goes to see Ben-Hur.

Mrs. R. H. Turner, Miss Pan Turner and Mrs. George Turner left yesterday and Mr. George Turner follows later, to be present at the D'Alemberte-Rouse wedding, which takes place to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Baptist church in Greenville, Ala.

CALL WANTS A NEW PARTY

EX-UNITED STATES SENATOR STILL IN POLITICS AND HAS A NEW SCHEME.

(Jacksonville Metropolis.)

Our Uncle Wilkinson Call is an old man, but by no means a dead man. He flits hither and thither like one of nimble limbs and joyous activity. He is in Jacksonville (his home) to-day and in Washington of New York to-morrow. The old gentleman is one of the best posted and versed men in politics to be found in the South. Though defeated in the democratic primary last May for nomination for United States senator (a position he held for many years), he is still talking of the future, and now has a new scheme for a new party organization, which is between and betwixt democracy and republicanism, and which he suggests to be known as the "Whig," a party once prominent in this country, and of which ex-Senator Call was a leader, as he had been in the democratic party in Florida since the civil war up to a few years ago.

The Ex-Senator's Plan.

The ex-senator was on our streets as usual last week, but flitted to Washington last Tuesday, and there was overhauled by a Post reporter, and interviewed as follows:

Former Senator Wilkinson Call, of Florida, who has recently attracted much public attention by his advocacy of a new "white party" in the South, was in Washington yesterday for a few hours, stopping over on his way from Jacksonville to New York. To a Post reporter Mr. Call, speaking of his new party plan, said:

The Negro Problem.

"The negroes are not factors in the politics of the South any more than the ignorant whites of that section. It is wrong to bring the negroes into the question, for they are simply a portion of our Southern population—mainly ignorant, of course, but not more so than some of our white citizens. They are docile and submissive, and in our state we live as neighbors. Why, some of the best friends I have in Florida are negroes. What I aim for is the formation of a party in the South that every intelligent voter, be he white or colored, can honestly support, and I believe such a party should be founded along the lines of the republican party, but it need not be called the republican party. You may call such a party what you like, but it seems to me that 'Whig' would be a pretty good name for it. I have been a silver man—I am now—but silver has been repudiated, and what is the use fighting the inevitable?"

"Any attempt to reduce Southern representation in congress would excite a great controversy. The house and senate have the right to see that their members have been fairly elected by intelligent voters, and it is the duty of the electors to see that proper suffrage laws are in force. There is no danger of 'negro domination' in the South. The white man will rule there, as he has always ruled, and it makes no difference so far as the question is concerned what political party he affiliates himself with."

Ex-Senator Call has gone to New York to consult with J. Pierpont Morgan regarding the new railroad which the ex-senator is building from Jacksonville to Ortega, a suburb of the Florida metropolis, where Mr. Call has a philanthropic movement on foot, in which Mr. Morgan is interested, for the building up of a model town for working people from Northern cities, by which they may be able to acquire their own homes and find steady, remunerative employment.

Editor Pensacola Journal:

One of our prominent business men called my attention to an article on the report of the Savannah water works, published in the Morning News of that city Jan. 3rd inst. Portions of the report is very interesting to Pensacola people and I clip the following for reprint:

"The receipts in the department for the year were $104,102, and the expenditures were $47,330.62, leaving a surplus of $56,771.38 left in the city treasury by the department. This is by far the largest surplus ever turned in by the department, as will be shown by the following comparative table, which gives the last ten years:

Receipts.	Expenditures.	Surplus.
1895 $ 75,383.37	$ 57,163.81	$ 18,229.56
1896 79,953.27	65,317.26	14,636.01
1897 79,662.61	48,750.39	31,232.22
1898 83,332.45	52,906.63	30,425.82
1899 84,706.68	51,313.35	33,393.33
1900 90,495.60	53,429.12	37,066.48
1901 92,626.14	59,511.93	33,114.21
1902 96,768.15	61,677.30	35,090.85
1903 98,582.02	62,849.91	35,732.11
1904 104,102.06	47,330.62	56,771.38

Valuable to the City.

"From this it will be seen that the department has in the last ten years turned into the city $395,989.89 more than it has cost. And the department is becoming more valuable every year as a source of revenue."

The total pumpage for last year was 2,808,418,990 gallons, an average of 7,697,458 gallons every twenty-four hours. The pumpage during 1903 was 3,119,372,249 gallons, an average of 8,546,225 gallons.

"There were 2,960 tons of coal consumed during the year, or an average of 8.1 tons every twenty-four hours. During 1903 there were 4,078 tons used, or an average of 11.17 tons every twenty-four hours. The better quality of coal purchased is partly responsible for the decrease during last year, it is stated in the report."

New Mains Needed.

"Special reference is made to the drinking fountains that have been installed during the year, and also to those that are soon to be put into place. Automatic fountains are recommended for future use for animals. The larger fountains cause a great waste of water, and are otherwise unsatisfactory."

"The conditions of the buildings and machinery of the department are reported to be excellent. Special reference is made to the improvement of the waterworks building during the year, and to the beautifying of the grounds."

"Supt. Kinsey recommends that all the old four-inch mains be gradually cut out and six or eight-inch mains substituted in their place. Many of the old four-inch mains are so badly corroded that they give no better service than a new two-inch pipe, it is stated. The substitution of new mains would greatly improve the domestic and fire service."

Another part of the article shows that during the past year there was two and one-half miles of new mains laid. With this added to the other expenses there was yet a profit left of over $57,000 to go into the public treasury to reduce taxation. It is not so stated but I infer from the reading
